

Contract of liability regarding the use of Jönköping University's computer, network, and system resources

Information

You are personally responsible for your account and its use. Your personal data will be processed in Jönköping University's IT systems and services. For more information, see: Privacy Policy¹ and personal data processing for the common login service².

Logs for IT systems and services within Jönköping University are continuously created and monitored and may be saved for up to two years. Monitoring has the following purposes:

- To identify, avert, detect and prevent security incidents that could damage common IT systems and services and/or the reputation of Jönköping University.
- For troubleshooting purposes, to identify and prevent operational disturbances in Jönköping University's common IT systems and services.
- To prevent and investigate security incidents where Jönköping University suspects that an employee, student or external party has acted in breach of the Acceptable Use Undertaking or applicable legislation in force.

System administrators have the right to check an individual's stored data, applications, data communications and other components related to IT operations, and where they have reason to suspect that account holders have acted in breach of the Acceptable Use Undertaking or application legislation in force.

Your account will be deleted when the period of validity has expired. Instructions on how to terminate your account in advance (Right to delete), can be found at the IT Helpdesk FAQ. <https://ju.se/helpdesk>

You agree to the terms and conditions of this contract of liability as of when you begin using the account.

Regulations

The account is to be used for University-related purposes. The account is personal and account details such as the password should be kept secret. Use of the account must be in compliance with Swedish legislation and generally accepted ethical rules.

By using Jönköping University's computer, network, and system resources, you agree to comply with SUNET's (Swedish University Computer Network) ethical rules. SUNET's primary purpose is to provide Swedish universities and colleges with access to national and international data communication.

(<https://www.sunet.se/policy-for-tillaten-anvandning>)

SUNET considers it unethical when a user:

- Tries to access network resources or other IT resources without having the right to do that
- Attempts to interfere with or disrupt the intended use of the networks or connected IT resources
- Attempts to damage or destroy computer-based information
- Clearly misuses available resources (personnel, hardware, software)
- Infringes on personal privacy
- Tries to insult or offend others

Examples of unethical conduct include the illegal distribution of copyright-protected material or installation of software

Penalties

Any breach of this contract of liability will result in the account being deactivated immediately and the incident followed up.
